A TERRIBLE FACT.

A Texas Hotel Caves In, Burying the Inmates in the Debris, Which Then Take Fire—Thirteen People Either Crushed or Burned to Death in the Mass of Ruins—Suicide of One Victim to Escape the Slow Torture of the Resistless Flames.

GREENVILLE, TEX., April 9.

Saturday morning there occurred the most dreadful calamity ever known in Texas. The Ende Hotel, a three-story brick building, fell with a terrible crash that fairly shook the earth. As the people rushed around it they were terrified to hear the shrieks and cries of the inmates, who were crushed beneath the mass of ruins. A fire broke out and the imprisoned victims were burned to death. The killed and buried victims are as follows:

Mrs. E. W. Pruitt, the proprietress, George Pratt, crippled son of the proprietress, burned with a leg injured for relief; Louis Albert, jeweler, burned alive; F. D. N. Riley, contractor, crushed to death; Frank West, a railroad freight clerk, crushed to death; R. R. Neals, cotton buyer, manner of death unknown; Miss Lou Davis, chambermaid, burned to death; E. Ford, telegraph line repairer, crushed to death; Mr. Hill, a mattress maker, manner of death unknown; and four negro servants crushed to death.

All the above victims were buried beneath the ruins beyond human aid, some being killed instantly, and others being cremated in the singling flames. Up to this hour a few lumps of charred flesh and bones have been removed, representing the remains of six human beings. Of some only the skulls remain; of others the bodies, with the limbs burned off, making a sight horrible beyond description.

The inmates of the house who escaped were:

W. D. Pruitt, son of the proprietress, badly bruised and mangled; P. H. Turner, horribly burned and terribly crushed; may die; M. G. Mars, badly bruised.

The slightly injured are as follows:

D. C. Bell, painter; R. M. Denton, carpenter; Tom Nicolls, butcher; Lewis Morrissey, conductor; Henry Fox, of Honey Grove; W. F. McClure, a stranger from Tennessee; Fred Ende, owner of the building, and his wife and daughter.

A negro girl employed.

Dr. Turner lay beneath the timbers till they burned in twain, thus releasing him, but not until he was badly burned and mangled. Mr. Denton was imprisoned, and would have killed himself to escape burning to death, but a second crash of the falling walls released him. One man cut his throat when he found the flames were consuming him. W. D. Pruitt raved like a maniac when he knew of his mother's horrible death, and it required several strong men to save him from plunging headlong into the flames. A telegram was sent to Sherman for a fire engine, which came at the speed of a minute, arriving at daylight. It poured a stream of water into the flames for six hours, but too late to save any lives. The cause of the calamity is uncertain. It is thought an explosion of powder in a hardware store, which had caught fire in the first story, blew out the west wall, causing the entire building to come down with a crash. The stores of James Ormstead, hardware, Geo. & Wilson and H. Lowenstein, agricultural implements, with some minor buildings, were burned; all partially insured. The railroad acted nobly in clearing their roads for the train bearing the fire-engine. They also offered their relief. The telephone offices are flooded with dispatches, going and coming by rail sections, and no subject is discussed but the terrible visitation of fire and death.

Uneasiness in England.

LONDON, April 9.

Jenning's cable to the New York World says: "Nothing that could with propriety be called a 'panic' exists in the public mind here respecting the discoveries that have been made of plots and dynamite factories during the week, but I have the best authority for saying that great uneasiness is felt in official quarters, where many important facts are known that for the present are of a necessity kept a secret from the world without. It is certain that a widespread organization for the destruction of public buildings exists, and that as yet only a few of its members have been arrested or tracked, and the Government officials are aware of the existence in London and the other cities of the Kingdom of large masses of explosives, all definite traces of which, however, they have temporarily lost. Every approach to London is guarded, and even the luggage of passengers upon the railway trains is examined quickly in the guards' vans. I need hardly say that much soreness is felt here at the fact that all these operations are carried on by means of money which is openly collected in the United States for the purpose and remitted by the well-known agents of the dynamite party in New York. That these agents should be allowed to pursue their operations without hindrance by the American Government is regarded as an unfriendly act, which the United States would not tolerate in its own case from another nation. I have reason to believe that this sentiment will, in all likelihood, find a vigorous expression this week in the House of Commons."

Funeral of the Late Peter Cooper.

NEW YORK, April 9.

The funeral of Peter Cooper took place on Saturday, and was largely attended. All the seats in the church not reserved for the family, friends and delegations were filled at noon, and many secured standing-room in the rear of the church two hours before the services began. Shortly before three o'clock the bells began tolling, and the Rev. Dr. Robert Collyer, the Rev. Dr. Howard Crosby, and the Rev. Thomas M. Peters took their places in the pulpit. The eulogy was pronounced by the Rev. Dr. Collyer, and it was followed by a brief address and a prayer by the Rev. Dr. Crosby.

The remains were taken to Greenwood Cemetery. The bells of the city tolled as the great procession moved to the ferry, where it was dismissed. It seemed as though the population of New York not in the procession had gathered upon the sidewalks. They respectfully moved as the body was borne past. Only one carriage, containing the male members of Mr. Cooper's family, accompanied the body to the cemetery, where it was deposited in the vault. The remains will be interred the coming week.

THE NEW PATENT DUST-PROOF STEM WINDING OPEN FACE CASE, MANUFACTURED BY THE AMERICAN WATCH CO., WALTHAM, MASS.

This case is formed in one solid piece without joint or seam, opening in front only, thus avoiding the usual Cap, and securing greater strength and durability.

These Watches are all open face. The bezel, into which an extra strong crystal is fitted with an especially prepared water-proof cement, is attached to the case by screwing it thereon, and thus forms an air-tight junction with the body of the case, which is proof against dust and moisture.

To railroad men, travelers, miners, lumbermen and others who are almost constantly exposed and who have to make frequent reference to the watch, these qualities are of the utmost importance.

THE FOLLOWING LETTERS TELL THEIR OWN STORY.

VALDOSTA, GEORGIA, July 20, 1882.

"I sold one of your Patent Dust Proof Cases about ten months ago, and the other day it came back to me with the request to make it wind easier. On examination I found that the stem was rusty, and I inquired into the cause of it. The gentleman stated to me that he was starting some saw-logs, when his chain caught in a bush and threw his watch into about twelve feet of water, and he was about two hours finding it. When he got it out it was running and he thought all right. In about three months he found that the stem was hard to turn and sent it to me."

I can say that the watch is all that the Company claims for it, and recommend it to all railroad and mill men.

B. W. BENTLY."

"CLINTON, IOWA, April 29, 1881.

"I wish you would send me a spring for the Wm. Ellery Watch  By the way this Ellery is a watch I sold in your Sorew Bezel Case to a farmer last fall. The first of January he lost the watch in the woods, and found it this week in about one foot of water. It had lain three months and over in snow and water, with but slight injury to the watch—only a hair-spring."

The above were very severe tests, and demonstrate beyond a doubt, that for any reasonable length of time during which a watch might be under water, it would receive no injury whatever.

We make these cases in both gold and silver, and as a Perfectly Dust-Proof Stem Winding Watch Case, Challenge the World to Produce its Equal. For Sale by all First-Class Jewelers.
